

12:39 PM

December 11th, 2019

🎄 Hey hunny!!!! 🎄

I was sooooooo sad to miss you at the reunion this year, babe! I can't believe it's been 15 years! Listen I know your off in the Big City trying to make it in something artsy (how's that going, by the way?), and I know we haven't talked in nearly a decade and the last time we did I maaaaybe called you weird for being a vegetarian or something but I want you to know I am sooooooo proud of the #bossbabe you've become. 😊 It's so important for ladies to support other ladies, don't you think? 🙋

So I toooooootally wanna hear about everything that's going on in your life and all the ways you are totally #crushingit, but first I want to give you the Bryson Family 🧑🧒🧒 Christmas update! 🎄 (And a Happy Honnakkah to our friends of the Jewish persuasion! 🕎)

As I sit, unscrewing the cap of my ForeverYoung Pep-and-Mint 🌿 essential oil, breathing in the invigorating scents of the season, I think of all the ways our family 👨👩👧 has been truly #BLESSED 🙏 in 2019. Paisley started kindergarten and Noah is absolutely #crushing 2nd grade! My little angels 😊 are growing up so fast! Paisley is starting her first skating 🛼 lessons this winter. She walked in on Brian and I watching "I, Tonya" 🛠️ one night and I don't think she totally got it, but she loved all the skating parts and now she says she wants to be just like Tonya! 😂 We'll wait until she's older to tell her the truth. 😂 I'm excited for Paisley to make new friends at the rink, and for an opportunity to talk to all their mommies about the benefits of ForeverYoung for stress relief from all that hectic #momlife stuff. Noah is doing great in school 🏫 and is very into something called Mine Craft. I still don't totally get it—the only "Mine Craft" I'm into is "craft"-ing a new ceramic bowl at Color Me "Mine"! LOL! I do wish he chose more social hobbies. I know that he's a smart 📖 and bright 💡 kid but I wish he would just get out there sometimes and make friends in real life, like we used to, hunny!!! I want to meet the other mommies in his class and get to know them! We can talk about how being a Mommy is so hard but so rewarding and how ForeverYoung has helped me live my best life.

You know my hubby Brian 🤔, he hasn't changed a bit since high school! Even though he's working 60 hours a week to help me invest in my small business and be the best sufficient #bossbabe I can be, we still have time to just be a couple, and that's so important! Even when he comes home exhausted from another day at his construction 🧑🏻‍🔧 job (using those muscles 💪 he got from playing JV football 🏈), he still always listens and nods when I talk about the stresses of running my own business and spending five whole hours messaging acquaintances from high school about ForeverYoung, making gift boxes for Paisley and Noah's teachers and going to two barre classes a day! Every girl should be lucky enough to marry their high school sweetheart ❤️! We still make time for each other every night and after the kids are in bed, we curl up on the couch to watch our favorite show "The Good Doctor"! We are totally #goals!

I am just so happy 😊 with the progress I have made in my life. I have an amazing family 👨👩👧👦 and a career that allows me to be the best me I can be, and I just want that for you too [High School Friend Here]!!! What do you say we connect over Skype 💻, have a little coffee ☕ and talk about the ways that ForeverYoung can help you be a more well, aware and happier YOU! You deserve it, hunny! You can have an amazing life like mine (although nobody can have a barre instructor as sexy 😍 as Paolo.... LOL). What do you say? Do you want to be part of a team of #bossbabes or just be part of the legion of jealous losers?

It's never too early to start thinking about these New Years Resolutions! Won't you join me and be your own boss? All I want to give you for Christmas 🎄 (or Honnakkah) is the opportunity to change your life! Can't wait for you to message me back!!! LOL!

xoxoxo
Amanda.

PS - Enjoy this picture of our family dog, Cooper, showcasing some of our amazing oils!

