

December 5th 2023

Hello Hoomans,

It is that time again, it is me CHARLIE (pronounced with an English accent), when I infiltrate my employees' mail....yes EMPLOYEE.....I know I used to call her my HUMAN SLAVE but apparently it's not PC.....(Politically Correct).....I know this year has been one where I have learned a lot of new vocabulary.....my employee was gifted a word a day calendar.....so I hear things. Mostly complaints but once in a while ...something interesting.

Well to begin, my employee is out of the house a lot.....she then feels guilty when she gets back and gives me treats and she thinks I like her not being there but I don't.... who is supposed to adjust my pillows if she is not there? Anyways I make her feel guilty for leaving me alone.... I have her trained to give me treats.....lots and lots of treats... muahahah.

Now a few months ago, she was leaving and she put the big black box on.... there are usually birds on but this time there was a show of a CAT and a small really fast MOUSE.... I think she said the name was TOM and JERRY and OMG this thing is hilarious.... I mean amewsing.....so what is with these two, are they friends? Enemies? Frenemies? I guess they get a lot of exercise chasing each other.....I mean I need to lose a few that's what the person in a white coat said this year....but hey I am sixteen so I do what I want to and exercising is not on the list.

Anyways back to TOM and JERRY....and after those two play around you have the RABBIT.... I think he is BUGS....so annoying.... I mean isn't that why everyone wants to kill him...am I right? Now back to TOM and JERRY, I have realized that they portray the mouse as more intelligent....I don't really like that plot line but he is a cute guy and I would be friends with him...so I overlook that fact....I mean us cats were worshipped in EGYPT and even today people LOVE doing stuff for us. So that concludes my update on what I have been watching on the black flat thing.

In other updates, I have been visiting the Grands a lot....I really like them because one of them loves to serve me real salmon and the other one, he likes to pet me and I tolerate it because he drops treats all the time and I am too fast for him and I get them all....too bad the person in the white coat never sees me move on treats because I am a ninja. And really, I am not overweight I have more to love...

And finally, my employee got a new VROOM VROOM, I did not like the old one it was very loud and the seats were cold, this one has nice warm seats and I can see out of the roof.

Here's a picture of me in it, I have an annoyed expression because I get more treats with this look.... muahaha....

so, until next year these are all my updates, MEOWY CHRISTMAS, HAPPY HOWLIDAYS and an AMEWSING NEW YEAR!

CHARLIE