

Dear Friends,

As you know, I'm not much of a writer, as evidenced by the petition many of you signed last year to ban me from ever sending another holiday letter. Thanks for that.

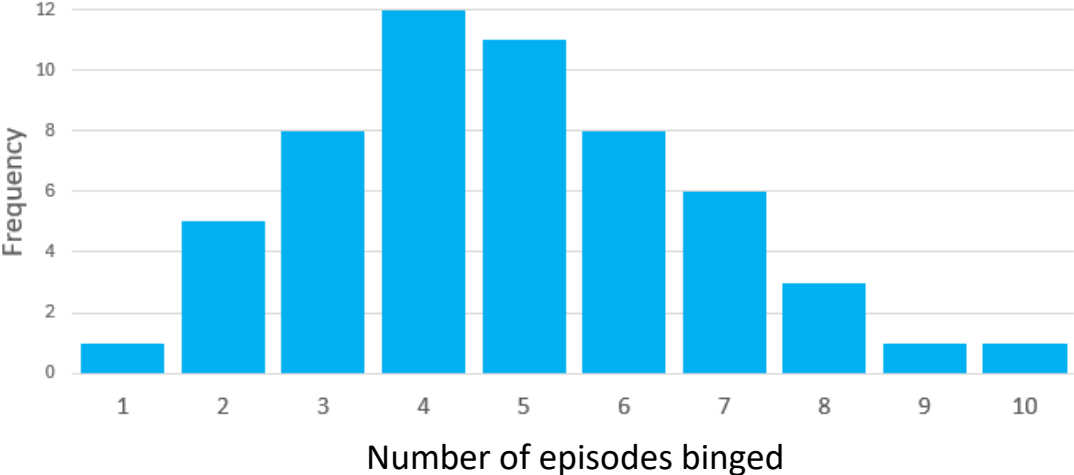

As a compromise, this year I've decided to use infographics to convey what I was up to in 2024.

I'll start with a simple flow chart.

Now let's get to the less emotionally charged items.

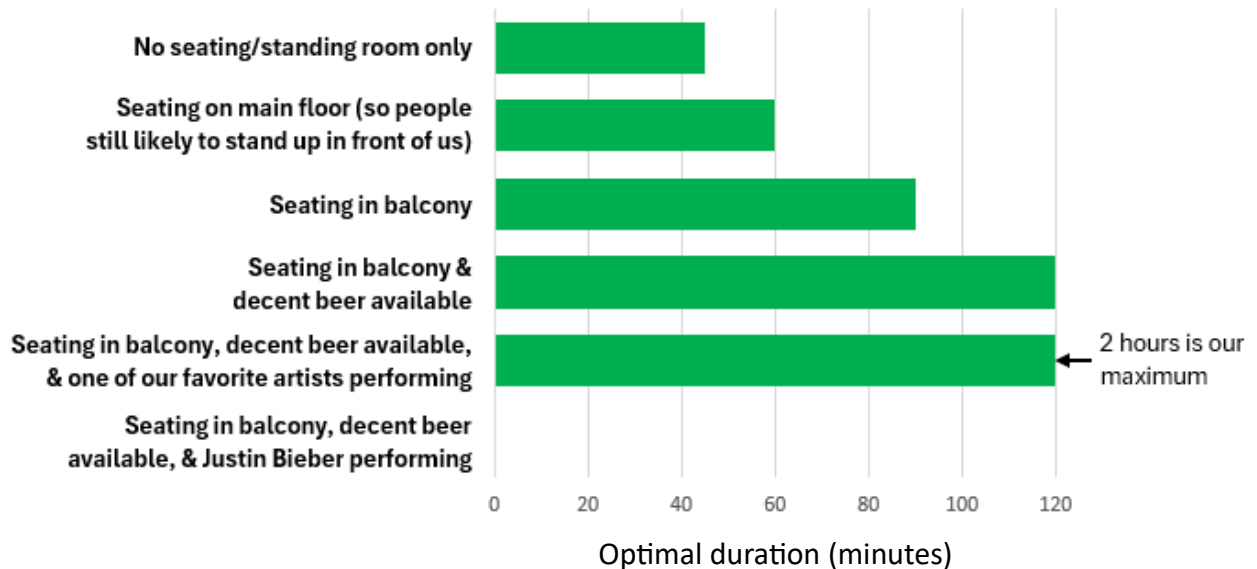

Frequencies of number of episodes of TV series we actually binged after saying we would only watch one episode

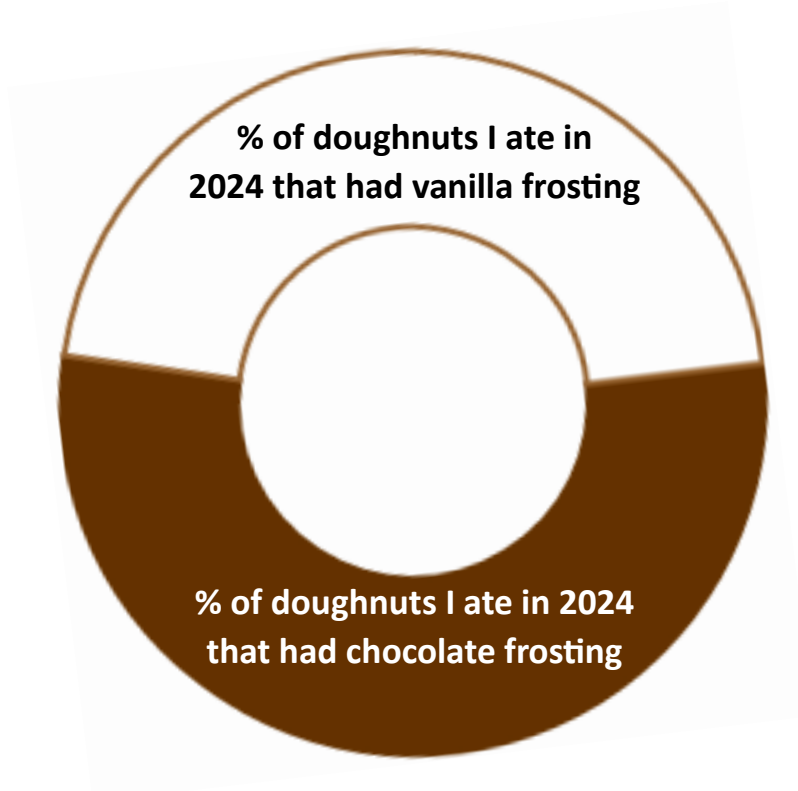

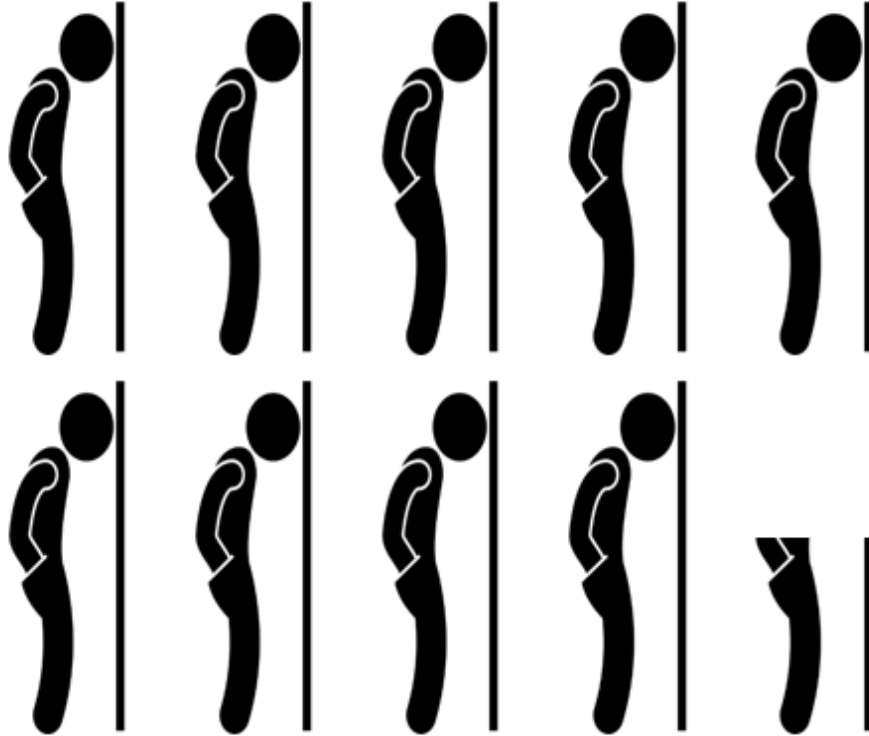

Relative frequencies of words/phrases I used while watching the returns on Election Day, 2024

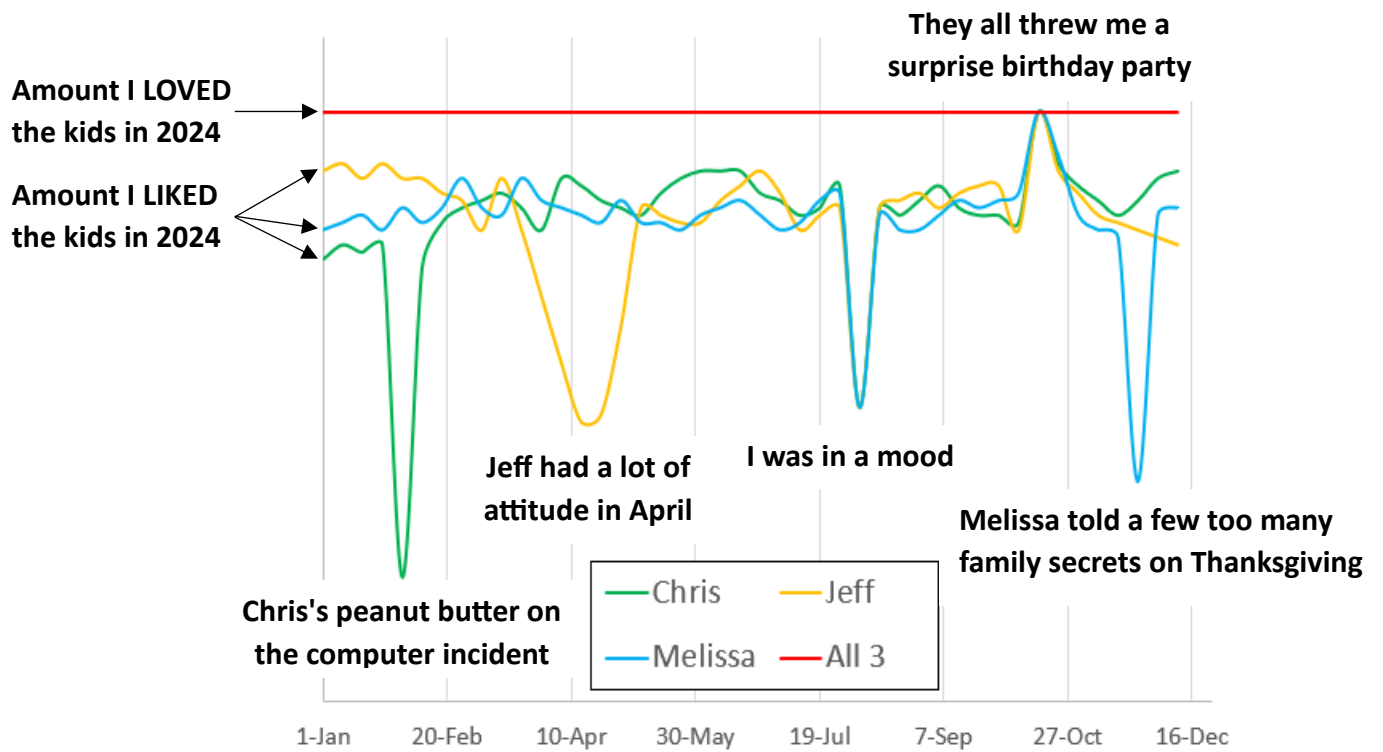

ugh!
fk! hy fk!
mommy
noooooo!
I can't keep watching
st!

Optimal duration of concerts we attend based on various factors

Number of days in 2024 I banged my head against a wall because of something a coworker said or did (Each full image represents 20 days)

That's it for this year. Have a great holiday season and, barring another petition, I'll have more fascinating infographics for you in 2025.

Your friend,

Dave